Victorious Palama Is Pennant Winner

RIVERSIDE LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP IS FIRMLY CINCHED BY VICTORY OVER CHINESE ATHLETIC CLUB — ORIENTAL LADS MAKE DETERMINED STAND BUT OPPONENTS PROVE TOO STRONG — LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE SUNDAY

To the tune of 9 to 4, the Palamas defeated the Chinese Athletic Club in a rattling good game of baseball at Aala Park yesterday afternoon, clinching their claim on the championship pennant of the Riverside League.

The C. A. C. made a game fight of it but early in the game the Palamas got a lead which could not be overcome and, though the Celestials worked like Trojans, they were unable to make up for the headway lost in the first two innings.

The largest crowd that has been present at Aala Park this season witnessed the game, and, as each team scored up a tally, pandemonium broke loose on the sidelines.

A trip skyward in the first three innings placed the Chinese Athletic Club team so much out of the running at Aala Park yesterday that the concerted efforts of all the members failed to do more than rescue the club from the ignominy of a coat of whitewash.

If the C. A. C. had not begun the game with Akina in the box they might have ornamented the walls of their club rooms with the coveted pennant. But Akina they placed there and, after he was finally superseded, it took superhuman work on the part of John Lo to make up even a small part of the ground which Akina had lost.

In the first inning the Palamas touched Akina up in great shape, and when finally the third out was called, the gong in the judges' stand rang three times.

In the second inning things went a little better; but the third was a signal for the recommencement of the slaughter of the innocents. What happened in that inning was almost too sad to tell about. Every ball that Akina pitched was found, and the way the sphere was swatted around the diamond was touching in the extreme. Five more runs were added to the score, making eight in all.

It had begun to look as though the plucky Chinese boys were going to wear a coat of whitewash, after all, when suddenly a bat connected with the ball, and a man reached first. As he ambled home there was a shriek of enthusiasm from the bleachers and the chances of the C. A. C. bunch began to look a little better.

When the Orientals went to their places in the field in the next inning, Akina was noticed on second base and John Lo in the box.

From the minute that Lo began sliding the sphere over the home plate the story of the day changed. Six of the Palamas batters fanned the wind and it was not until the beginning of the ninth that the aggression with the euphonious title managed to chalk up another tally. Time and again, the Palamas came in, and one-two-three, out they went as rapidly as the minimum number of balls could be pitched.

In the beginning of the ninth, the Palamas chalked up another run, giving a total of nine and clinching their claim on the championship pennant beyond chance of dispute.

The most noticeable weakness of the C. A. C. boys was in their base-running. Time and again they threw away chances to score by taking idiotic hazards when there was no need.

With no outs and a man on second, efforts would be made to steal bases, which always resulted in disaster. The Chinese lads also seemed to have the bunting habit abnormally developed. Three or four of the men persisted on bunting on every occasion, and the result was defeat.

The Palamas played as consistent a game of baseball as anyone could wish to see. Espinda was right there with the sand and he kept the C. A. C. guessing. He worked a little too hard maybe, and used up an awful lot of strength in throwing to bases, but he kept his head and he was a great big factor in the Palamas' victory.

The game was well worth watching and, with a few minor exceptions, was above reproach. E. Fernandez, in sniping, made a couple of decisions that appeared a trifle fine, but on the whole his work was all that anyone could ask, and raw decisions regarding balls and strikes were noticeably absent.

Following is the official score:

HOODOO CHASES MARINES

Sea Soldiers Fail in Effort to Send Haniswais South

The hoodoo which has been following the marines around the whole season was very much in evidence yesterday morning when the sea soldiers went up against the Haniswais. Work as they would, the marines could not get enough runs to put them on the winning end and went down to defeat to the tune of 10-8.

EGGIES

The news of Chicago's victory over New York for the National League baseball championship, sent the fans of the "Windy City" crazy. There was no sleep the night after the game and every broker's office in La Salle street was jammed with customers.

The Comet Athletic Club defeated the Anahis at Aala Park yesterday by a score of 15-2, and the Chinese Aloha Juniors sent the Perfume Kids down to defeat by 12-2. Both games were featureless except for the prevalence of errors.

The Alameda baseball team was defeated yesterday by a score of 8-7 by the engineers. Both teams played good ball.

The Kailhi Athletic Club defeated the Walleles at Kailhi Park yesterday by a score of 8-3.

SIMPSON IS WINNER

Handicap Gives Him Victory Over White in Play-Off

If Austin White had maintained the form in the play-off of the tie between himself and Simpson that he showed in the first match yesterday, he would have been an easy winner in the Tansan tournament. He failed to do so, however, and to Simpson fell the coveted trophy.

The first match found White in fine form and when the scores were counted up he and Simpson were tied. The latter had a handicap of ten, however, which brought his record of ninety-two down even with that of White.

In the play-off White's form fell way down though and the gross scores of himself and Simpson were identical—92. Simpson still had his handicap of ten to draw on and the result was defeat for White.

On the whole the scores of the day were a disappointment to those in charge of the arrangements. It had been hoped that the rearrangement of the handicaps would even matters up, but such was not the result. The total scores are as follows:

Iroquois Bluejackets Send Ala Moanas Down To Defeat

By placing seventeen runs opposite their names on the scoring sheet yesterday morning, the bluejackets from the U. S. S. Iroquois put the Ala Moanas on the short end of the game. Though the latter aggregation worked hard, eight runs was the total number of tallies secured and the Iroquois bunch slipped to the head of the percentage column.

The game was interesting from the viewpoint of the spectators. The pitchers had a bad time of it and were swatted about in heart-rending shape, but errors were few and runs were made by heavy batting and not through fumbles on the part of the fielders.
